Staff Development Days geared towards effective hybrid instruction strategies.	Increased student engagement.	Strong	Teachers use technology when they become familiar with its use. Teachers have become comfortable with Canvas, Nearpod, and other applications introduced to them by both CCSD and their colleagues.	As we plan staff development days for the 23-24 school year (as there is only one more planned for the 22-23 school year) we plan to incorporate staff surveys to include input for technology needs/goals as well as training needs.	Teachers need additional funding for applications like Kahoot which is now charging for its services. Teachers need more time during the contracted year in order to both learn and implement these strategies into their lesson plans.
Inquiry Area 2 - Adult Learning Culture

Engage students in both activities and athletic programs.	Students build self-confidence and buy into the overall culture of classrooms and the school at large.	Strong	Coaches/Advisors have learned that both advertising as well as having well-rounded athletic/activities programs are essential for participation. Our Activities Office has facilitated student interest and it has led to almost doubling the amount of clubs offered to our students to participate in after school. Our Athletic Office continues to add more athletes to its rosters by retaining student athletes.	Continue to provide students with well-rounded athletic and activity opportunities to enhance their high school experience in a positive manner. Continue adding clubs and continue adding athletes to our already existing programs. Administer club interest surveys to solicit new areas of interest.	Fundraising ideas are needed for both clubs and athletics in order to continue providing students with the varied opportunities they now have at their disposal. Community sponsors would add a great deal of support and contributions to both our clubs and athletic programs as well as a partnership with our neighbors.
